

Cookie policy

In order for our site to work properly and provide a better service to the visitors of our site, we place small data files called cookies on your device and this Policy explains what cookies are, how we use them, and your right to reject cookies.

Cookies are small text files that store information on your computer, mobile phone or other device. They allow the organization that placed the cookie on your device to identify your device or account across websites, devices, and browsers used.

Cookie files perform many useful tasks:

- they can remember your data, saving you the need to enter them again each time you visit the site;
- they help us understand which sections of our site are the most popular because they allow us to see which pages and features visitors go to, and how long they spend on the pages. Studying such information helps us adapt the site to the requirements and preferences of our Customers;
- cookies help offer the content of the site that is relevant to your interests by collecting information about your use of the site itself, as well as other websites and applications.

We use or may use cookies to identify frequent visitors, the type of content and websites the interesting the user of our site, the length of time each user spends on any section of the site, and specific functional options that the users have used, in which country they are in when using the site, or how the user interacts with our content.

In the work of the site, we use:

- session cookies – temporary text files that are used to remember you during your visit to the site and disappear after the browser is closed;
- permanent cookies - text files that are used to remember your preferences on the site and remain on your computer or mobile device after you close the browser, which allows you not to re-enter access data the next time you visit the site.

Most browsers support cookies, but users can set their browsers to reject certain or specific cookies and delete cookies at any time.

When accessing the site through a web browser, you can set your browser to accept all cookies, reject all cookies, or notify you each time a cookie is sent. All browsers are different, so for information on how to change the settings related to cookies, look into the "Help" menu of your browser. Your device's operating system may provide additional cookie controls. Please note that the operation of some services and sites requires the use of cookies, so if you disable them, you will not be able to use these services or sites.

By agreeing to the use of cookies on your first visit to our site, in accordance with this Policy, you give us permission to use cookies on each subsequent visit.

We may unilaterally update our cookie policy from time to time. By continuing to use the site after the changes are posted, you agree to the new version of the Policy. If you do not agree to the changes, you should immediately stop using the site.